

Navigating the Education and Mental Health of Your Neurodiverse Child

Research suggests that children with learning disabilities are 4.5 times more likely to have a mental health problem than those without a learning disability.

How can you address the unique academic needs of your child, and recognize when shifts in behavior signal a need for change? Join us at Winston Preparatory School, or log on virtually, to hear from experts in the fields of education and mental health. We will explore how parents can partner with educators and allied professionals to collaborate toward their child's success. Register today to attend in-person or online and receive a link to the recording.

CLICK HERE TO REGISTER

April 3

6:30 PM PST

9:30 PM EST

Winston Preparatory School

1 Saint Vincents Drive, San Rafael, CA 94903

www.winstonprep.edu

Who will be joining the conversation?

Beth Sugerman, MS CCC-SLP

Chief Enrollment Officer at Winston Preparatory School

Beth acted as Head of School at Winston Prep CT from its Fall 2007 opening through May 2023. Her current role as Chief Enrollment Officer allows for participation in all enrollment activities within Winston's growing network of campuses and programmatic entities.

Racheal Siegel

Educational Consultant/Advocate at Marin Special Ed Advocacy

Racheal is an experienced Educational Consultant/Advocate, and the parent of a child with special needs. She is a lifelong educator who has seen many students succeed through the consistent implementation of responsive personal interactions & effective teaching practices.

Ghazaleh Rafati, PhD

Neuropsychologist

Ghazaleh specializes in pediatric and adult neuropsychological assessments, choosing to incorporate both a relational and psychodynamic approach. She asserts that neuropsychological assessment provides the most in-depth understanding of a client's strengths and challenges.

Jennifer Taylor, JD

Managing Consultant at Jet Ed Consulting

Jennifer Taylor founded Jet Ed Consulting, and is the mother of a son with learning disabilities. Jennifer brings empathy and strategy to her practice, alongside a mission to help parents navigate the complex world of therapeutic education.

Mina Kim

Community Parent and Founder of Square Peg Union

Minna is mother to two bright, dyslexic and neurodiverse children. She founded Square Peg Union, a community group committed to promoting inclusivity and supporting families of neurodiverse children. She is passionate about community building, educational advocacy, and making a difference.

Sara Aylward

Winston Preparatory School Alumni Parent

Sara understands first-hand what a profound difference it can make to find a program that understands your child. After 2 years at Winston, her son Brady is thriving at a Marin public high school with minimal support.